Tips on making a complaint to the NHS in England

Complaining can make things better.
Why should I complain?

If you are unhappy with the NHS treatment you, a family member, or someone you care for has received, you can make a complaint. Complaints can help the NHS to learn and improve services.

What is a complaint?

A complaint is when:

• you are not happy with an organisation’s service or something it did or didn’t do, and

• you want the organisation to answer your concerns and put things right.

About us

We are the Parliamentary and Health Service Ombudsman. We make final decisions on complaints that have not been resolved by the NHS in England. Before bringing a complaint to us, you should complain to the NHS organisation you are unhappy with (for example, your GP or hospital).

Here are some tips to help you do this.
Be prepared to tell the NHS organisation what you would like it to do to put things right. This could be to apologise or to take action to prevent the same mistake happening again.
Keep to the point

If you can speak to the people involved first, they may be able to sort out your complaint quickly.

If you’re not sure who you need to contact, your local Healthwatch can help.

To find your local Healthwatch, visit www.healthwatch.co.uk/find-local-healthwatch

5 Ask about the organisation’s complaints procedure

You can complain in writing, by email or by speaking to someone in the organisation. Ask if there is a form to fill in, and when you can expect to hear back.

6 Ask for help

If you need some help with making your complaint, you can get in touch with your local advocacy provider. Advocacy providers support anyone who wants to make a complaint about the NHS.

Visit www.local.gov.uk and search for ‘health complaints advocacy providers’ to find a contact who can offer support in your area. If you need help finding an advocacy provider, you can also contact us on 0345 015 4033.
Complaining can make things better.

7. Keep to the point
Keep your complaint clear and short, so your main points stand out. State clearly what you want to achieve from your complaint.

8. Include your contact details
Tell the organisation how you would like it to contact you and include a reference number if you have one.

9. Keep a note of anyone involved in your complaint
Write down the names and positions of the people involved in, and dealing with, your complaint. Also keep copies of any letters or emails you get, as you may need to refer to them in the future.

10. Contact us
If you have reached the end of the complaints process and you still don’t feel that the issue has been resolved, or if your complaint hasn’t been dealt with after six months, you can complain to us.
For more information on making a complaint to the NHS in England or to make a complaint to us, visit:

www.ombudsman.org.uk or call 0345 015 4033.

For other languages or formats, please contact us at publications@ombudsman.org.uk